Deputies Bust Neighborhood Meth Lab in Millington

Shelby and Tipton County Deputies discovered a methamphetamine lab being operated at a house near Millington this evening. Just before 5 p.m., Deputies from both agencies raided the house at 7744 Commodore.

Officers found three two-liter bottles filled with chemicals hidden in a closet. Deputies also discovered supplies of lye, lithium batteries and other products used to manufacture the drug.

Investigators believe stolen property was also being stored at the house. Officers recovered several laptops, jewelry and other items suspected of being taken during burglaries in both Shelby and Tipton Counties.

Keith Crum, 39, who lives at the house, was arrested and faces several charges. Sheriff's Deputies say their investigation is continuing and more arrests could be made in connection with the meth lab and stolen property.
